BRIAN CUNNINGHAM EDITOR & DARREN SHAN ASSISTANT EDITOR

Howdy-ho, ADVENTURE COMICS readers! It's been…well, geez, 30 YEARS since there's been a letters column in this series, and it feels good to be back! Let's get right to your letters…

Dear Brian,

I purchased ADVENTURE COMICS #522 wary and weary of the Legion of Super-Heroes. I'm a longtime Legion fan, dating back to 1972 when writer Cary Bates and artist Dave Cockrum began the grand Legion comeback. However, over the last 20 years I've had to endure several revampings, retoolings and rebootings of the Legion, and while portions and aspects of these dramatic changes have been enjoyable, they've also exhausted me.

So, yes, there was a lot riding on my purchase of ADVENTURE #522. If I wasn't pleased, I figured I would just reacquaint myself with the Legion through past stories that have now become classic, but I would be disappointed with you, Mr. C, because memory lane is not exactly where I wanted to go.

Uh-oh.

Rest assured, I liked "Consequences," so I'll be sticking with this title for a while.

Whew! You had us going there for a sec!

There was enough familiarity mixed with new twists to hold my interest. I enjoyed seeing Tellus and Dawnstar back as Legionnaires. I was intrigued by Mon-El's new role as a Green Lantern. I was impressed how Paul Levitz's story stayed true to the one central plotline while plugging a subplot along the way. And there was a warm, fuzzy nostalgic buzz when Geraldo Borges's artwork reminded me of Greg LaRocque's illustrative style.

I suppose my only gripe was that there weren't enough Legionnaires in the story, but if a number of them are off after Durlan assassins, I'm sure many will see action as a team soon. The cover girls more than made up for the deficiency.

Jim Kingman
Pasadena, CA

Glad you enjoyed it, Jim. If you want more Legionnaires, howzabout 19 of them in LEGION OF SUPER-HEROES #13, out in May? (Oh yes we did.)

Dear Brian,

When are Night Girl, Chameleon Girl, Bouncing Boy, and XS going to appear in Legion of Super-Heroes? (I really want them to appear!)

Bouncing Boy and Night Girl appeared last issue and will continue indefinitely in any "Legion Academy" story, since they're instructors. Chameleon Girl…hope you picked up LSH #10. XS…stay tuned.

Another thing, could you improve Brainy's attitude?

Nah, he'd just give us attitude for trying to improve it.

One last thing: Could you please have some of the members of the Legion Academy graduate into the Legion? My preferred graduates would be Lamprey, Nightwind, Crystal Kid, and Power Boy.

Ben Lowry
Watertown, MA

We are beginning to explore that concept in this very arc! No promises, though.

Dear Brian,

I am delighted by the return of Paul Levitz to LEGION OF SUPER-HEROES and ADVENTURE COMICS.

In "Consequences" (ADVENTURE #522), Mr. Levitz isn't afraid to use an extended sequence aboard a Science Police cruiser to demonstrate the brutality of a formidable new villain. It also reminds us of the duties and dangers faced by the Science Police who are frequently relegated to limited appearances at the edge of the superhero fight scenes. I have always enjoyed these moments that show us more about life in the 31st century.

I am looking forward to seeing how Mon-El will reconcile the responsibilities of the Green Lantern ring with his role in the Legion, and Legion leadership if he accepts it. I am looking forward to mysteries being revealed: who is Harmonia Li, and what is the blue baby.

Eric Schultheis
Berkeley, CA

Fear not, all will be revealed, and likely not what anyone is expecting. Oh, and the blue entity will gain a name soon, too. "Blue baby" just sounds too weird for a Darkseid-class, universe-shattering baddie…

Dear Brian,

If this flying baby is pure evil and flying around the Universes, then I hope it's Darksied. Heh.

Suffice it to say, the universe will tremble at the might of the blue bab–we mean, blue entity!

This was a good story and does well to set up Saturn Queen and her evil Legion for future use, that's for sure.

Hope you caught the LEGION OF SUPER-VILLAINS SPECIAL, then (On sale now!), which flows right into LSH #11.

It also shows us Mon-El and that annoying Dyogene and how Mon-El is really at a low point in his life. I mean, really, you're one of the most powerful men alive and you're moping around acting like a child. Now you have this new mentor to teach you the use of the ring and, I dunno, it just feels so out of character.

Mon's been through a lot prior to this. Perhaps someday, we'll show more of that.

Then there is the switching back and forth between uniforms during his battle with Sun Killer that I was like "What is goin' on?" Use your ring, block out the red sun rays, keep your strength, knock him out–this fight should never have lasted as long as it did.

Well, in fairness, Mon-El's only had the ring for about two minutes–it's a lot to ask of a guy to master its use instantly. He doesn't have a Kilowog to train him, only this strange alien that talks kinda funny.

Geraldo Borges does excellent work on the pencils this issue. His Tellus really does look incredible.

We're pretty psyched that Geraldo will return for a one-off in ADVENTURE #527 starring the starshiniest Academy cadet ever, Comet Queen.

Though I still have issues with his fingers. In the beginning he didn't have these types of fingers. They were bigger, fatter, less fingery if you understand me, and I liked that. These fingers give him too much of a humanoid quality in the hands, and that I don't agree with.

Steven Leitman
Cincinnati, OH

Hmm…okay, we'll keep an eye out for that.
We have some big things coming up this summer and fall for all things Legion, so keep your holo-cubes set to hear about it all. In the meantime, we'll see you back here next month for the next chapter of this "Legion Academy" arc!
Long Live the Legion!

DC NATION COMES TO CHICAGO

It's no secret that we love to get out to conventions and meet our fans, so it is with great pleasure that I tell you that the 2011 DC Nation Tour will be pulling into Chicago for C2E2. For those of you wondering, C2E2 stands for "Chicago Comic & Entertainment Expo" and this year it's being held from March 18-20 in the West Building at McCormick Place.

This year C2E2 is presenting a truly remarkable combination of panels, dealers, and of course guests. Just take a look at who you can expect to see at the show:

Franco Aureliani, Art Baltazar, Ryan Benjamin, Ivan Brandon, Xander Cannon, Cliff Chiang, Yildiray Cinar, Paul Cornell, Tony Daniel, Gene Ha, Phillip Hester, Adam Hughes, Jamal Igle, Tyler Kirkham, Don Kramer, Kevin Maguire, Doug Mahnke, Peter Nguyen, Mike Norton, Joe Prado, Ivan Reis, Gail Simone, Scott Snyder, Jill Thompson, Bill Willingham, and many more!

We hope you can make it to the show and if you can, be sure to stop by the DC booth to find out what's going on and what time our writers and artists will be signing. For more information check out C2E2.com.
